

Graduating from the University of Minnesota Law School cum laude, she's been a trailblazer along the way.

Janet Monson, of Aafedt, Forde, Gray, Monson & Hager, P.A. began practicing law in the early '80s. "My communication skills were honed early," she says. "As the youngest of four sisters, I was always competing with my siblings for 'the floor' - I learned how to choose my words carefully."

And she's been a trailblazer along the way. After graduating from the University of Minnesota Law School cum laude, she became the first woman clerk, the first woman associate and the first woman to be made full partner at her firm. Today, eleven of the twenty-two attorneys on staff at Aafedt, Forde, Gray, Monson & Hager are women and five of them are full partners.

The firm specializes in providing comprehensive legal services for major insurance carriers and corporations and is experienced in all forms of insurance litigation including workers' compensation, personal injury, property damage, product liability, auto, construction and premises liability. They also provide labor, employment and corporate advice and litigation support.

Janet specializes in Workers' Compensation defense. Ranked at the top of her specialty, she is a passionate litigator and is known for balancing aggressiveness with her good nature. While she strives to negotiate agreements, she also enjoys competitiveness and is willing to "go to the mat" for her clients.

The most successful attorneys are both effective speakers and writers. Watch and listen for Janet Monson - she usually gets what she wants!
